

How the ATA Carnet system works

The ATA Carnet system is a perfect illustration of how close cooperation between business and customs can facilitate international trade.

Each country in the ATA chain has a single guaranteeing organization approved by its national customs authorities and WCF. The guaranteeing body is entitled to issue Carnets and to authorize local entities to deliver Carnets on its behalf.

The ATA international guarantee chain provides reciprocal guarantees assuring customs administrations that duties and taxes incurred in case of misuse will be paid – for example, if goods are sold instead of re-exported.

The ATA Carnet operates under international customs conventions administered by the World Customs Organization (WCO). The ICC/WCF World ATA Carnet Council manages the system in cooperation with the WCO. The Council and ATA experts promote the ATA Carnet in Africa, Asia and Pacific, Latin America, Eastern Europe and the Middle East.

Since 1963, the Carnet system has spread from a few Western European countries to include over 75 economies. Currently, approximately 178,000 Carnets are issued worldwide every year, covering goods valued at almost US$ 30 billion.

Duty-free and tax-free temporary imports

The ATA Carnet is an international customs document that permits duty-free and tax-free temporary import of goods for up to one year. The initials “ATA” are an acronym of the French and English words “Admission Temporaire/ Temporary Admission”.

ATA Carnets cover almost everything:

- commercial samples;
- professional equipment;
- goods for use at trade fairs, shows, exhibitions.

ATA Carnets cover the usual and unusual: computers, repair tools, photographic and film equipment, musical instruments, industrial machinery, vehicles, jewellery, clothing, medical appliances, aircraft, race horses, art work, prehistoric relics, ballet costumes and rock group sound systems.

ATA Carnets do not cover perishable or consumable items, or goods for processing or repair.

Speed through customs

- ATA Carnets reduce costs to exporters by eliminating value-added tax (VAT) and customs duties.
- Carnet holders are not required to post securities with customs.
- Carnets simplify customs border crossings and cut red tape by allowing importers and exporters to use a single document for all customs formalities.

With their ATA Carnet, salesmen, exhibitors, and other business travellers may:

- make advance customs arrangements at predetermined cost;
- visit several countries;
- use their ATA Carnet for several trips during its one-year validity;
- return to their home country without problems or delays.

Who else benefits?

- Trade shows and fairs that will more easily attract foreign exhibitors;
- Tourism and transport industries;
- Entertainment industry and concert promoters;
- Sports events like the Olympic Games;
- Countries wishing to take full advantage of the global economy.

The cost of a Carnet

Fees vary by country and are determined by the value of the goods, the number of countries to be visited, the costs for security, insurance or other services.

How to get an ATA Carnet

Carnets are issued by chambers of commerce and similar business organizations affiliated to the ATA international guarantee chain. The World Chambers Federation (WCF), which brings together the chamber members of the Paris-based International Chamber of Commerce (ICC), is responsible for administering the chain.
